

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The Asian Environment Outlook (AEO) 2001, the first publication in the AEO Series, was inspired by Dr. Bindu Lohani, former Manager of the Environment Division and the current Secretary of the Asian Development Bank (ADB). The development of the AEO 2001 report was then led by his successor, Mr. J. Warren Evans, whose guidance and support made it possible to compile the enormous amount of information available into a concise publication. We would also like to acknowledge Dr. Kazi F. Jalal, former Chief of the Office of Environment and Social Development, and his successor, Mr. Rolf Zelius for their valuable advice. Special acknowledgment is given to the U.S.-Asia Environmental Partnership (US-AEP) as co-contributor to the report, and in particular, to Dr. Peter Kimm of US-AEP for his knowledgeable input.

The primary authors of this AEO 2001 report are David Angel of Clark University, Warren Evans, Peter King, and Tahir Qadri of ADB. Authors of earlier discussion drafts are David Angel, Cutler Cleveland of Boston University, and Firouz Rooyani of Tetra Tech EM, Inc. The following ADB staff deserve special acknowledgment for their contributions of sector papers, reviews of draft documents, and participation in various workshops that helped focus the issues, constraints, and options related to environmental management and sustainable development in the Asia and Pacific region:

- ◆ Piyasena Abeygunawardena, Senior Economist (Environment), Energy Division East
- ◆ Nessim Ahmad, Policy Coordinator, Environment Division
- ◆ Wouter Lincklaen Arriens, Lead Water Resources Specialist, Forestry and Natural Resources Division East
- ◆ Ali Azimi, Senior Environment Specialist, Programs West
- ◆ John Boyd, Senior Sector Specialist (Sustainable Development), Office of the Chief, OESD
- ◆ Edy Brotoisworo, Senior Environment Specialist, Environment Division
- ◆ Robert Dobias, NGO Administrator, NGO Center
- ◆ Prodipto Ghosh, Senior Environment Specialist, Environment Division
- ◆ Hemala Hettige, Senior Evaluation Specialist, Operations Evaluation Division East
- ◆ Aminul Huq, Senior Energy Specialist, Energy Division East
- ◆ Javed Hussain Mir, Forestry Specialist, Forestry and Natural Resources Division West
- ◆ Anita Kelles-Viitanen, Manager, Social Development Division
- ◆ Peter King, Senior Project Specialist, Forestry and Natural Resources Division East
- ◆ Ely Anthony Ouano, Senior Environment Specialist, Environment Division
- ◆ Darius Teeter, Project Economist, Forestry and Natural Resources Division West
- ◆ Masami Tsuji, Environment Specialist, Environment Division
- ◆ Dewi Utami, Environment Specialist, Environment Division
- ◆ Etienne van de Walle, Senior Poverty Reduction Coordinator, Office of Pacific Operations
- ◆ Chantale Wong, U.S. Alternate Executive Director

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The following Resource Persons also contributed to the formulation, review, and finalization of this publication:

- ◆ Angel Alejandrino, Global Water Partnership, Southeast Asia Technical Advisory Committee, Philippines
- ◆ David Angel, Clark University, United States
- ◆ Cutler Cleveland, Boston University, United States
- ◆ David McCauley, International Resources Group, United States
- ◆ George Faraday, World Resources Institute, United States
- ◆ Delfin Ganapin, Jr., Philippine Federation for Environmental Concerns, Philippines
- ◆ Lisa Hopkinson, Civic Exchange, Hong Kong
- ◆ Dan O’Hearn, Sierra West Consulting Group, United States
- ◆ Peter Levin, Investment Manager, Techno Venture Management, Munich, Germany
- ◆ Antonio Oposa, A. Oposa and Associates, Philippines
- ◆ Jose Padilla, World Wildlife Federation, Southeast Asia, Philippines
- ◆ Firouz Rooyani, Tetra Tech EM Inc., United States
- ◆ Lisa Scola, Tetra Tech EM Inc., United States
- ◆ Frances Seymour, World Resources Institute, United States
- ◆ Richard Stevenson, Mantaray Management LLC, United States
- ◆ Lyuba Zarsky, Nautilus Institute for Security and Sustainable Development, United States

Country Environmental Policy Integration Studies (CEPIS) were conducted for India, Indonesia, Pakistan, the People’s Republic of China (PRC), Philippines, Sri Lanka, Thailand, and Viet Nam. The preparation of these CEPIS reports, which provide valuable input to the AEO 2001, would not have been possible without the untiring efforts of the following:

- ◆ Robert Anderson: PRC
- ◆ Malik Aslam Amin: Pakistan
- ◆ Robert Everitt, Essa Technologies: Viet Nam
- ◆ Firouz Rooyani and Delfin Ganapin: Philippines
- ◆ Amit Kapur, TERI: India
- ◆ Will Knowland: Thailand
- ◆ Sharon Lumbantobing and Firouz Rooyani, Tetra Tech: Indonesia
- ◆ Shiranee Yasaratne, International Union for the Conservation of Nature (IUCN): Sri Lanka
- ◆ Ma Zhong, Renmin University: PRC

The following regional and international institutions collaborated with ADB during its preparation of the AEO 2001:

- ◆ Institute for Global Environment Strategies, Tokyo, Japan
- ◆ Rocky Mountain Institute, Aspen Colorado, United States
- ◆ South Pacific Regional Environment Programme, Apia, Samoa
- ◆ US-Asia Environmental Partnership, United States
- ◆ World Resources Institute, Washington DC, United States

We would also like to acknowledge the assistance and support provided by the following peer reviewers of the draft documents presented at a seminar coinciding with ADB's 32nd Annual Meeting in Chiang Mai, Thailand:

- ◆ Maritta Koch-Weser, Director General, IUCN, Gland, Switzerland
- ◆ Rajendra Pachauri, Director, TERI, India
- ◆ Kasem Snidvongs, Former Permanent Secretary, MOSTE, Thailand
- ◆ Wakako Tamanaka, Former Minister for Environment, Japan
- ◆ V.J. Vaitheeswaran, Environmental Journalist, The Economist

Ricky Barba, Beth del Mundo, Francisco Janer, Ruby Arico, Lito Baldesimo, Helen Cruda, Vergel Latay, Emma Bides, and Annie Idanan of ADB's Environment Division assisted in finalizing the publication. Shelly Fu of Tetra Tech EM Inc. copy edited the report, and Ida Juliano, Tetra Tech, worked on the design and typesetting.

S. Tahir Qadri

Editor

J. Warren Evans

Manager, Environment Division