

Note on the Author

Mark Bray holds a personal chair professorship in comparative education at the University of Hong Kong, where he has been based since 1986. He previously taught in secondary schools in Kenya and Nigeria, and at the Universities of Edinburgh, Papua New Guinea, and London. He has undertaken numerous consultancies for national governments and international agencies including Asian Development Bank, Commonwealth Secretariat, UNESCO, UNICEF, and the World Bank. This work has taken him to over 20 countries in the Asian and Pacific region, as well as to numerous countries in Africa, the Caribbean, Europe, and North America. Much of his research work has focused on the costs and financing of education, and on the distinctive features of education in small states. Correspondence: Comparative Education Research Centre, The University of Hong Kong, Pokfulam Road, Hong Kong, China. E-mail: mbray@hku.hk.
