

Asian Development Bank & Australia

FACT SHEET

The Asian Development Bank (ADB) is dedicated to reducing poverty in the Asia and Pacific region through pro-poor sustainable economic growth, social development, and good governance. Established in 1966, it is owned by 67 member nations—48 from the region—who have committed $143.53 billion to the vision of a region free of poverty.

Despite the region's many successes, it remains home to two thirds of the world's poor: 1.8 billion people who live on less than $2 a day, with 903 million struggling on less than $1.25 a day.

Australia is the fifth largest shareholder. It has contributed $3.17 billion in capital subscription and $1.37 billion to special funds since joining in 1966.

Australian companies and consultants have been awarded $1.33 billion in procurement contracts (based on nationality of contractor) on ADB-financed projects since 1967.

In 2008, lending volume was $10.49 billion (86 projects), with technical assistance at $274.5 million (299 projects) and grant-financed projects at $811.4 million (49 projects). This also generated $1.65 billion in direct value-added cofinancing from financing partnerships operations.

Over the last 5 years (2004–2008), ADB's annual lending volume averaged $7.70 billion, with technical assistance averaging $231.5 million and grant-financed projects $655.1 million.

As of 31 December 2008, the cumulative totals were $143.53 billion in loans for 2,147 projects in 41 countries, $4.08 billion for 263 grant projects, and $3.55 billion for 6,599 technical assistance projects.

In addition to loans, grants, and technical assistance, ADB uses guarantees and equity investments to help its developing member countries.

With headquarters in Manila, it has 26 offices around the world and more than 2,000 staff from over 50 countries.

Contributions to the TASF (committed):	$31.85 million
Contributions to the ATF (committed):	$3.80 million

Cofinancing

ADB arranges cofinancing from bilateral, multilateral, export credit agencies, and commercial sources, in the form of grants for technical assistance and components of loan projects, loans, and credit enhancement, such as guarantees and syndications. Cofinancing brings additional resources to ADB's project financing. In 2008, total direct value-added (DVA) cofinancing amounted to $1.65 billion for 101 projects, of which $1.57 billion was for 25 investment projects and $84.2 million was for 76 technical assistance projects. Cumulative DVA cofinancing for the period 1970–2008 amounted to $15.74 billion for 1,221 projects, of which $14.97 billion was for 305 investment projects and $772.65 million was for 916 technical assistance projects.

Cofinancing with Australia from 1 January 2004 to 31 December 2008 comprised the following.

Investment Projects:	11 projects, cofinancing of $87.03 million

Trust Fund Agreements

Trust funds are key instruments to mobilize and channel grants from external sources to finance technical assistance and components of investment projects. They play an important role in complementing ADB's own grant resources. So far, bilateral, multilateral, and private sector partners have contributed more than $2.0 billion in grants to ADB operations. Initially, trust funds were established through single-donor channel financing agreements targeting numbers of specific sectors. Over time, ADB has been increasingly switching to multidonor trust funds covering thematic issues. A more recent development is the establishment of trust funds under theme-focused umbrella initiatives called financing partnership facilities, which support priority areas in ADB Strategy 2020, such as water, clean energy, and regional cooperation and integration.

Australia has contributed to the following trust funds:

Single-Donor Trust Fund

- Memorandum of Understanding on Channel Financing established in 1993
Cumulative commitment: A$59.3 million
- Memorandum of Understanding on Channel Financing for the ADB–Australia South Asia Development Partnership Facility established in 2006 for enhanced governance, urban development, inclusive growth, human resource development and regional cooperation and integration for Afghanistan, Bangladesh, Bhutan, India, Maldives, Nepal, Pakistan, and Sri Lanka.
Cumulative commitment: A$11.0 million

Multidonor Trust Fund

- Cooperation Fund for Regional Trade and Financial Security established in 2004
Cumulative commitment: A$1.5 million
- Water Financing Partnership Trust Fund established under the Water Financing Partnership Facility in 2006
Cumulative commitment: A$10.0 million
- Clean Energy Financing Partnership Trust Fund under the Clean Energy Financing Partnership Facility established in 2007
Cumulative commitment: A$7.0 million

Share of ADB's Procurement Contracts

Each year, ADB provides loans to fund projects and activities in its Asian and Pacific developing members and several billion US dollars' worth of contracts to procure goods and consulting services.

Procurement contracts for goods and works, and consulting services under loan and technical assistance operations totaled $6.97 billion in 2007 and $7.52 billion in 2008. Cumulative procurement, as of 31 December 2008, was $92.83 billion. Most contracts were awarded on the basis of international competition, which is open to firms and individuals from any ADB member country, regional or nonregional.
