Description
The goal of this program is to combat land degradation and improve rural livelihoods in Central Asian Countries. The objective is to establish Central Asian Countries Initiative for Land Management (CACILM) a multi-country and donor partnership to support the development and implementation of national level programmatic frameworks to implement more comprehensive and integrated approaches to sustainable land management in the region. The technical assistance will be cofinanced with the Global Environment Facility under its operational program on sustainable land management (OP15).
