Ladies and gentlemen, it’s wonderful to see you all again. Thanks so much for attending this annual event to celebrate our partnership. It is a celebration of all the good things we are doing together to support trade, and the growth, development, and human progress that comes from it, and to recognize some of the outstanding deals over the past year.

I’d like to thank our sponsors. Budgets were particularly tight for many institutions this year, so we’re especially grateful. Without their generosity, we would not be able to have this dinner. So, I wish to extend my appreciation to the Government of the Grand-Duchy of Luxembourg – Ministry of Finance.

We are grateful to our GOLD SPONSORS: BBE – Byblos Bank Europe, DBS Bank Ltd, and HD Bank. Thank you very much as well to our SILVER SPONSORS: Basisbank, Caixabank, S.A., HSBC, Khan Bank, Liberty, MunichRe, ODDO BHF, Saigon-Hanoi Bank (SHB), Simmons & Simmons, Southeast Asia Commercial Joint Stock Bank (SeABank), Standard Chartered Bank, SwissRe, and TP Bank.

The global conversation around trade and supply chains has been transformed by the pandemic. There is a recognition that we need to play a leading role not just to ensure sufficient financial backing for trade to all segments of the economy, including SMEs, but there is now an expectation that we need to make global trade and supply chains green, transparent, socially responsible, resilient, and inclusive. This is a huge responsibility, and our partnership is critical to moving the needle on these issues. The awards this evening will, in large part, mirror our joint efforts to achieve these important goals.

Last year alone TSCFP, with your partnership, supported over $8 billion in trade and nearly 3,000 SMEs in the more challenging developing markets in Asia. But the numbers alone do not show the extent of our efforts and the importance of our partnership. Global trade and supply chains must be the place where we start to get serious about some of the most important issues we face. Food and energy security are critical to people, especially the poor, and the work we do together to support the import of these commodities into challenging markets is vital. Moreover, there will be no real progress on combatting the core issues confronting the world, such as climate change and ensuring humane labor standards, unless we look at solutions through the lens of trade and supply chains, the backbone of the global economy.

That’s why TSCFP is working hard, together with you, our partners in banking, governments, and industry, for a greener, more resilient, inclusive, transparent, and socially responsible future.

Today we pause to celebrate our collective achievements, partnerships, and friendships, without which none of this would be possible.

Let the magic begin!
